

Mis en ligne par Revue de presse, le 21 mars 2016 (dernière m.a.j. : 28 février 2018)

ROXBURY - A Landing man has taken the lyrics of Adele's smash hit song "Hello" and rerecorded them in Latin to entertain his students and win a contest.

Keith Massey, 49, of Landing, is a Latin teacher at Leonia High School in Bergen County who has made a habit of creating videos translating and performing popular songs into Latin for his students.

"These kind of videos didn't exist so I decided I'm going to make them for my students," Massey said.

He's covered songs ranging from "Jingle Bells" and "Do You Want to Build a Snowman" from the movie "Frozen," to Beatles songs including "Hello, Goodbye." His most popular videos have netted tens of thousands of YouTube views....

Lire l'article complet de Michael Izzo sur dailyrecord.com